The Department of English Studies, CUTN organizes an invited lecture by Prof. N. Natarajan on the topic “Politics of Theory”

Date and time: 27.01.2020 at 10 AM

Venue: the seminar hall of NLBS 1

Short-bio of Prof. N. Natarajan

Prof. N. Natarajan is a former Professor and Head in the Department of English, Pondicherry University, Puducherry. He has authored three books and the prominent one which is most loved by students of literature is his Textual Factories. He has authored 60 papers in the international peer reviewed and national level journals and edited volumes. He has also visited Reunion Islands and gave extensive lectures for students and scholars of French University. He has also been invited as Adjunct Professor by Calicut University where he introduced reputed Jonathan Culler, Professor of English and Comparative Literature at Cornell University and impressed him with his lecture on Structuralism. He is an expert in Comparative Literature, Semiotics and Literary Theories. He had served as a Faculty of English for more than 35 years.